

Abstract

A side-by-side comparison of biological and technological networks offers insight on how to unify the evolution of biological and technological systems.

of the two distinct classes of systems?